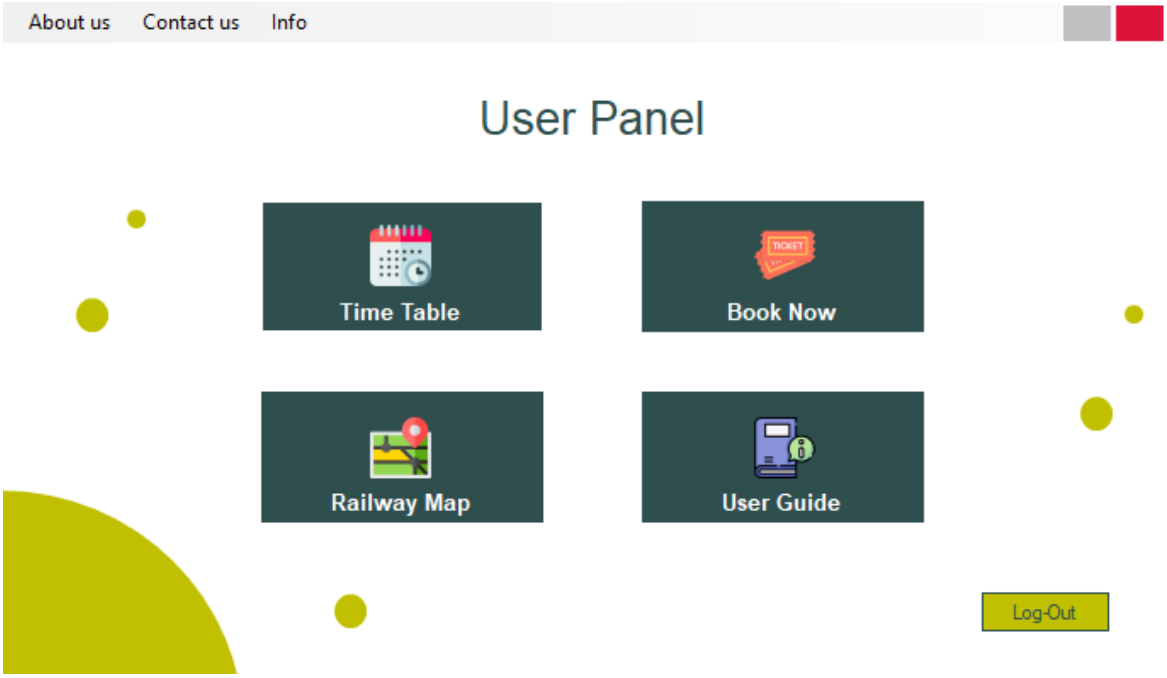
User Guide for Railway Management System

Version 0.1

Login:

You should create account before login. If there no account you cannot login to the user panel. In account creating you have you're your valid information with government distributed with NIC no. the nice no will be your username for login. And password should contain 0-9 characters including uppercase, lowercase and symbols. If your forgot your password there have a option called "forgot password". In this you can update your new password. There have a specific login for administrators. This panel access only for admins who are operating and inspecting the railway management system.

User Panel:



In user panel your can do anything related to the railway system. There have an option called booking. You can book your tickets from here. And after booking you can get a softcopy of a you're travelling ticket.

And if want to watch live time table, there have an option called "time table". You can search places you want to travel. It will show time table. And you can see railway routes in Sri Lanka.